The new Georgia public service commission Tuesday completed its organization, as one of its members, Ben T. Huiet, of Atlanta, was named defendant in quo warranto proceed-ceedings filed in behalf of the sus-pended commission, Jule W. Felton, of Montezuma, to whose post Huiet was appointed by Governor Eugene

The commission issued only one order in addition to the naming of its personnel, which is to be headed by Curtiss B. Mees, appointed consulting engineer and fate expert. The order directed that present emergency freight rates on cotton due to expire the cotton of the continued indefinitely. on July 31 be continued indefinitely.

The Felton-Huiet proceedings were filed with Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court, because the respondent is a resident of Fulton county. Judge Pomeroy ordered the application set for a hearing on August 2. It will be heard either by Judge E. D. Thomas or Judge G. H.

Judge E. D. Thomas or Judge G. H. Howard.

He resorted to other means and he is bound by fairness and indicinal judgment and neither are The main body of the plane crashed near the southeastern boundary of Oceanside.

There was a dull booming noise heard as the wing of the great plane dropped away, scores of Oceanside people said. The noise indicated that a mid-air explosion had split the plane. Several hundred persons witnessed the tragedy.

Eyewitnesses said there was a crackling sound as one wing of the large ship crumpled and ripped from the fuselage.

Then the damaged craft fell in an awkward downward plunge to strike nose first. Force of the dive telescoped the fuselage about the bodies of its occupants.

One man, it appeared, tried to use a parachute but was trapped.

Army officers, who came from March field to investigate the crashs said they believed the wing broke in such a way as to block the hatch and imprison the victims in the falling wreckage. None was able to free to use the parachutes.

The wing landed half a mile from the body of the plane and a pontoon came to earth about half way between.

The key man of the administration's program for better times addressed the nation just 24 hours after his chief had appealed for support of the program, and during the interim some 10.000 replies had poured into the White House pledging support.

Telegraph wires into the capital were reported burdened by the response of the people, and White House attaches said the deluge of messages were the greatest in history.

It was upon the basis of this inpouring of encouraging reactions to the plan to raise wages and spread employment through limitation of working hours that Johnson based his estimate of new jobs—the first definite calculation he has made since undertaking his colossal task.

In addition to the word from employers that they would enter into the agreement proposed by the chief executive to become effective August I, new codes were coming from industries to supplement the 400 already in hand, including oil, wool textiles. lumber and rayon upon which hearings proceeded during the day.

From villages and crowded metropolitan centers, there came a steady flow of messages pledging wholehearted co-operation to his appeal last night to industry to maintain or increase present pay levels and shorten working hours to put more persons to work.

EX-GOV WOODRING WEDS DAUGHTER OF SEN. COOLIDGE

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 25.—(P)
Many persons high in the councils of the nation gathered at the home of United States Senator Marcus A. Coolidge today for the wedding of his daughter, Helen, and Harry Hines Woodring, first assistant secretary of war and former governor of Kansas. Rev. Max A. Kapp of the First Universalist church, officiated, and attendants of the bride and groom included James Roosevelt, eldest son of the president; Colonel Robert Lemon, Mr. Woodring's aide when he was governor of Kansas, and Mrs. Donald F. Carpenter, of Leominster, and Mrs. Robert E. Greenwood, of Fitchburg, sisters of the bride.

The bride wore an 1830 period dress of ivory moire and carried a nosegay of gardenias. Her sisters wore ivory tulle and large ivory straw hats, trimmed with blue ribbons. They carried cut flowers. The Coolidge home was decorated with evergreen, Madonna lilies and larkspur.

Senator Coolidge gave his daughter in marriage. Two sons and two daughters of United States Senator Felix Herbert, of Rhode Island, comprised a string quartet and played the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin."

The wedding of the couple marked the culmination of a romance with a distinct political background, for it was in political gatherings and at democratic social affairs in Washington that they became acquainted.

Clark told investigators he and Mrs. Clark had moved from Manchester three weeks before because of fear of Willinghan and had attempted to keep their whereabouts a secret.

The letters left by Willingham described a love affair which he said began in 1932 between Mrs. Clark and himself and one of them pleaded with Mrs. Clark to join him in La-Grange, where he said he was to open a lunchstand. Mrs. H. H. Daniel, neighbor of the Clarks, said the wife had become friendly with her and had on occasions told her that Willingham was annoying her with unwelcome attentions, forcing her to move from Manchester without leaving an address.

The body of Willingham was returned to Manchester for burial Tuesday.

NEW ROAD BOARD TO BEGIN PROGRAM

Gunfire flared in the drive against lottery operations in Atlanta Tuesday when the driver of a lottery "pick-up" car was shot by City Detective S. D. The two detectives were riding out Peachtree street in a county automobile driven by County Policeman Cal Cates when they passed a car suspected of being associated with a lot-

Governor Talmadge himself remained silent on his plans for the department, but it appears certain that his own personal program will be laid before the board and ratified without delay. The reorganization will be the fulfillment of another campaign pledge, as the governor not only promised to take the department out of the hands of those who were running it, but also promised to place it in the hands of those who could operate it to a better advantage to the taxpayers.

U. S. Funds Sought.

Members of the new highway board Tuesday received a copy of a resolution bearing the names of the commissioners of Coweta county, urging Senators Russell and George of Georgia to "exert themselves and to use their full influence" to get $10,000,000 of emergency highway money for Georgia.

The new commission speedily completed its organization Tuesday. In addition to naming Mr. Mees, the board selected Commissioner Huiet as the member in charge of the enforcement of the motor vehicle laws of the commission. Mr. Mees' salary was fixed at $500 a month.

L. P. Skeen, of Decatur, was named chief bus inspector at a salary of $200 a month, while the following inspectors were named at $125 a month:
Scott Beaton, T. E. Rich, G. H. Richardson, C. P. Williams and George Waters, who served under the old commission, and J. J. Killebrew, of Gibson; J. E. B. Stewart, of Atlanta; Jack Sumner, of Sylvester; Charlie Gardner, of Ideals; John C. Peterson, of Ailey, and Ervin Gates.

12 Inspectors Employed.

Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit, in announcing the appointments, said that the commission was employing 12 inspectors instead of seven, but was reducing the salaries from $200 to $125 a month. The chairman also pointed out that Mr. Mees, although named consulting engineer also will act as rate expert carrying on the work formerly done by E. M. Price and J. Houston Johnston. Mr. Mees announced the reappointment of J. C. Manning, of Atlanta, as his assistant in charges of files.

from the office following Governor Talmadge's action last Friday, I had only time to make a short statement concerning the unusual action by him. It is only because of a duty I owe the public that I ask space to discuss only some of the relevant facts necessary to an impartial understanding of this unusual happening.

"Governor Talmadge cites certain."

The decision of Governor Eugene Talmadge suspending them from membership on the Georgia public service commission was attacked Tuesday by former Chairman James A. Perry, of Atlanta, and former Commissioner Albert Woodruff in formal statements

"Governor Talmadge cites certain reasons for his destruction of the work of the Georgia public service commission. These will be referred to in the order named by him.

"He says statements concerning es-"He says statements concerning estimates of amounts saved the people by rate revisions were incorrect. "We reduced class freight rates early this year; we reduced passenger rates, both of which have been enjoined by the courts. A hearing was under way in Fulton superior court in a fight to sustain our order reducing freight rates at the very time Governor Talmadge was in a conspiracy with a certain number to destroy not only the commission but_its work in reducing freight rates. The case was concluded on June 5, his order was served on the commission the morning of June 6. We begged him for time to prepare our response to his order but he, without excuse, declined it. "He says our value for rate making purposes is high, compared to tax values. He started out in his procedure of persecution to show that tax values are a controlling factor in arriving at values for rate making purposes. Finally, he made the statement that no further reference should be made to it, that it had nothing to do with the case. We told him we did not have the funds to value the property: that we have wanted such funds for years, and were ready to value the property at any time he would provide the funds. The evidence is uncontradicted and overwhelming, even to Governor Talmadge, that we have used values less than any method of valuation that will ever be ascertained, in fixing rates.

"We showed, without one word of evidence to the contrary, that in the recent order, which the governor used as a basis for his conspiracy and libel, we reduced rates for electric current to 164 communities scattered throughout the state taking rural line service; we showed that 230-odd cottons in the recent past and that they are satisfied with the present rates; we showed that wholesale industrial power rates in Georgia, compared to other states for the same service, are lower in Georgia, and customers taking approximately $2,000.000 of eurprent per year swore to the commers taking approximately $2,000.000 of eurprent per year swore to the commers taking approximately $2,000.000 of eurprent per year swore to the commers taking approximately $2,000.000 of eurprent per year swore to the commonistic to the commers taking approximately $2,000.000 of eurprent per year swore to the consideration to such views. The answer to this and all other deductions in the state taking and the state the same to this and all other deductions in the recent of surface.

"In view of the fact that I now find myself deprived of the right to perform the duties of the order of the recent order, with no anomistity or ill will in my the perform the duties of the order of the order of the same toward any one, I desire to ma service, are lower in Georgia, and customers taking approximately $2,000,000 of current per year swore to the governor that the rates are satisfactory and as low as they should be. Herman Swift, of Columbus; Hatton Lovejoy, of LaGrange, and C. Baxter Jones, representing customers taking current amounting to approximately $1,000,000, swore that the rates are as low as they should be and that if a valuation were to be had of the property and the law followed fixing rates, an increase would be inevitable. Why is it that of the 340-odd cities, towns and communities, not one aptomers taking approximately $2,000,towns and communities, not one appeared and gave support to the con-spiracy? But, on the contrary, by their silence showed clearly they are satisfied with reductions accorded

Mileage Basis Plan.

"What comes of the action of the commission 12 years ago, instigated by me, that put every shipping point in Georgia on a mileage basis, removing a discrimination of long standing in favor of large cities, whereby every shipping point in Georgia is now able to compete, if desired, in freight shipments with the large cities?

snipping point in Georgia is now after to compete, if desired, in freight shipments with the large cities?

"We showed, without contradiction, that if the Jacksonville, Fla., rates were to be applied to the customers of the Georgia Power Company throughout the state it would result in an increase of more than $8,000.000 of their present income, and if the present Georgia Power-Company rates were to be used by the Jacksonville customers their saving would amount to something in excess of $000,000. The Jacksonville rates were so astounding to the governor and his co-conspirators that he finally refused to hear more about them, with the statement, That (referring to the Jacksonville rates) is just like this Crisp county thing. The governor made this statement. He must have had a reason for it. Certainly the had a reason for it. Certainly the evidence justified his statement. "If the interested reader gets a clear understanding of what I have stated in the foregoing it is this: Gov-ernor Talmadge has uselessly and deernor Talmadge has uselessly and destructively interfered with the work of the commission, at a great loss to the shipping public and consumers of light and power. He can answer to the people why he did this. At no time has he made a suggestion to the old commission that rates were too high. On the contrary, he made the statement two months ago that the statement two months ago that the commission was doing good work. At the time he referred to our railroad the time he referred to our railroad rate reductions, passenger and freight, both of which have been crippled if not destroyed by him. If he had views on this subject, what reason did he have for never mentioning them to the commission since he became governor? I grant you he made political, incorrect statements about railroad rates prior to beginning his cannot be the common that the conditions of the co eal, incorrect statements about railroad rates prior to beginning his candidacy for governor, but since he has become governor not one chirp have we heard from him condemning the present rate structure for any service in Georgia over which the commission has jurisdiction. The governor well remembers that I went to him after his primary, before and since he became governor, and told him that I wanted to render him every assistance in his administration as I felt it my duty, and asked for any suggestions that he might have to make, but not one did he offer. Why?

Secretary's Employment.

"Governor Talmadge refers to my action in engaging the services of a secretary formerly employed by the Georgia Power Company which would be countenanced by no one save and bis outster order he purposely refused road rates prior to beginning his can-didacy for governor, but since he has become governor not one chirp have we heard from him condemning the present rate structure for any service

Georgia Power Company which would be countenanced by no one save and except a man of his type. Even in his ouster order he purposely refused to give the real truth of this. I engaged the services of the young lady in question through the recommendation of an employee of the Georgia Power Company, not an official, Mr. W. A. Carlisle, formerly of Gainesville, Ga., whom I knew before I went on the commission in 1911. In this ville, Ga., v.hom I knew before I went on the commission in 1911. In this manner I secured the services of this young lady. Some months later I had work of a personal nature that called for extra hours, for which I paid extra; it required working at night, holidays and Sundays. I told the lady the circumstances and that I would have to let he go. It happened that she got back in the employ of the Georgia Power Company without any effort or knowledge on my part. She is highly efficient in her work and just as soon as the time passed for just as soon as the time passed for this special work which I would not ask her to do, I phoned her to know if she would come back to do my work. She did and remained until the work. She did and remained until the governor threw her out of work with three other young ladies, two supporting, in part, widowed mothers.

"Why does Governor Talmadge condemn the commissioners for using railroad passes and identification cards on buses, all only while on official duties? I voted against both, as did Commissioner Woodruff. However, it was an official, legal act that permitted this, so held by Mr. Talmadge's appointee, Mr. Anderson, the commission's special attorney. There is no question as to the legality of it. It did work for economy in saving the state traveling expenses by those who used this transportation. It might be said not to be good politics but so far as being legal and so far as being void of the charge of improper conduct as an official, it is without the slightest discredit to anyone using such.

"If an impartial mind will peruse the foregoing with the further thought

"If an impartial mind will peruse the foregoing with the further thought in mind that the beginning, the hearing and the end of this illegal, disgraceful proceeding, all had its inception in the mind of Governor Talmadge, a complete vindication of the commission is inevitable. Indeed, he was the grand jury to indict; he was the solicitor-general to prosecute; he was the judge to preside; he was the judge to preside; he was the jury to render the verdict; he was all this and more, he was a persecutor of the vilest type. He did it with great damage to the state, in crippling and destroying the 'If an impartial mind will peruse He did it with great damage to the state, in crippling and destroying the work already done by the commission in preventing rate reductions that would have been in effect two months ago except for his political interference and the only explanation lies in the fact that he did it in the belief that he could crystallize whatever prejudice there may be over the state. udice there may be over the state against power companies. Since I had no opportunity to make a statement at the hearing, I wish to say now that my every official act and vote since I have been on the commission has been an honest and sincere effort to perform the duties of my office under oath, and that I have always acted fearlessly without favor or the hope of reward.

Sumner J. Smith, then assistant attorney general assigned to the commission by Governor Hardman, and was advised by him that such action

The commission, however, did not act on this question at that time, and before it was finally determined by the commission that the members and employes should use passes and identification cards when on official business in an effort to conserve the funds available for the enforcement of the motor carriers' act. John J. Kelly, assistant attorney general assigned to the commission by general assigned to the commission by Governor Russell, concurred in the opinion of Mr. Smith recited above.

Action Ruled Legal.

"Since the adoption of this rule by the commission, J. J. E. Anderson, the commission, J. J. E. Anderson, assistant attorney general, assigned to the commission by Governor Talmadge, has advised me that in his opinion, such action was legal and authorized. Without giving the reasons prompting my vote, and without any intention of reflecting on those voting for this rule, I wish to say that I opposed this action, and only after a majority vote of the commission adopting this rule, did I use the identification card and passes when on official business. I did I use the identification card and passes when on official business. I felt then, and I feel now, that I have done no wrong in this regard.

"There is evidence in the record to the effect that I requested a pass for A. D. Jones, an inspector for the commission, formerly director of the Bureau of Markets by appointment by Governor Talmadge. This evidence is misleading in that it implies that I was interested in Mr. Jones obtaining a pass, Mr. Jones was out in his tera pass. Mr. Jones was out in his ter-ritory at work and asked me to con-vey the request for him. This I did without any concern as to whether the Feeling that there might be some criticism and not being absolutely satisfied, he sought the advise of his professors in Lamar school of law, Emory University, and several members of the University, and several members of the judiciary in Fulton county, they all advising that such employment was not in the least unethical. Committee Agrees That Activities Should Continue During Recess.

LONDON, July 25. - (A) - The steering committee of the world economic conference holding its closing session today received coldly the American proposal to assure definite reassembling of the parley after recess is taken Thursday but agreed that some activities should be carried on during the indefinite holiday.

The suggestion of Cordell Hull,
American secretary of state, to limit the recess period to a maximum of three months fell upon deaf ears when leaders gathered late today, even Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, of Canada, who staunchly defended the American position in the fight to pre-vent adjournment three weeks ago, failing to respond.

It was agreed that Prime Minister MacDonald, chairman of the confer-ence, should have authority to sum-mon the bureau at any time to deal with the question of reconvening the plenary body, and the bureau—which is the steering or executive committee —was instructed to arrange for continuance of such work as should be considered possible.

At Thursday's final plenary session
Secretary Hull is expected to make an appeal for continuance of the work in the direction of international eco-nomic co-operation and James M. Cox, of Ohio, chairman of the monetary commission, will urge that studies be carried on in that field.

Especially is this true in the case of lizards. How can I describe the granular scales and pastel tints of these delicate lizards to you? I can only say that they are grayish green on the tail, brownish on the back with six narrow yellow stripes from the region of the head down the back to the hind legs. They are often eight to ten inches long. What have I said? Nothing.

You can find these little lizards in sandy situations, where there is not a great deal of moisture, and where the sun heats the sand past the point of comfort to your skin. THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The president's address on the industrial recovery agreement now being laid before the employers of the nation is a plain, straight-forward and easily understandable statement of what he terms a "deliberate, reasonable and just plan animals and fowls. intended to put into effect at once lished, industry by industry, through codes."

He emphasizes that the agreement is a step to bring about im- and farm hands. It would mean mediately the benefits which will become permanent later on with the adoption of codes by the various industries, a necessarily somewhat slow procedure.

The industrial recovery program as outlined by the president is neither "complicated nor is there anything particularly new about it. It goes back to the basic idea of society, and of the nation itself, that people acting in a group can accomplish things which no individual acting alone could ever hope to take full advantage of the oppor-

THE MUCOUS COLITIS COMPLEX.

The theory on which the conception of gout was based was that an excess of uric acid accumulated in the blood or in the affected tissues. CONTACTS WASHINGTON, July 25 .- The Roosevelt administration is building a direct contact with the men and women of the country that transcends anything heretofore known in politics.

It has the politicians aghast. Only men interested in the technique of statesmanship have paid much attention to it so far. Others will before the congressional campaign next year and the presidential election of 1936.

By then it will be more apparent why so many members of the Roosevelt official and private family have taken to the radio, magazines and newspapers. An explanation has been whispered around that those involved can use the money they are making. That is true, but far more important in the long run is the development of new personal avenues through which the president can get his case directly to the Any politician will tell you that is of the utmost significance.

The president started the new strategy by speaking directly to the people. Other presidents have made their addresses to par-ticular gatherings, usually conventions and meetings.

could have learned how effective the new approach is if you walked along the street last Monday night when the president was on the air. Practically the entire country listened.

Similarly effective will be the new column Mrs. Roosevelt is establishing for women in a national magazine. Publicity experts believe she will contact probably more than a million home-workers in personal correspondence.

That also means a million voters.

SLIP Backing up this set-up is the eminent Sunday night baritone, Colonel Louis Howe. His fan-mail is stupendous. Recently, however, it was arranged that he stop broadcasting Some trouble arose when he got into conflict with White House announcements. DEVICES There have been some changes in the stock market systems since 1929. Traders with profits now are afraid of drops. They place stop-loss orders so they may be sold out automatically at a profit when prices hit the toboggan. These act in a declining market like a downhill snowball.

Also the short side of the market has been very thin. It fails to cushion falls. The recent decline went much farther than it should have gone tor these two reasons.

Mrs. Roosevelt's column should achieve some social benetits generally, which is what she is most interested in. The only one who appears to be making very much money is Howe. He gets (as advertised) $50,000 for his series. Moley's contract is supposed to call for around $100 per article. Howe's biggest job is to run the forestry set-up for the president. He also handles much of Mrs. Roosevelt's business.

No Great Battle Has Been Won by A Committee of Twelve Generals

-By Robert Quillen – Most of the burdens and problems that vex us now are due to the ancient truth that too many cooks spoil the broth. In time of crisis, the average earnest citizen yearns to take charge things and save his country.

Since he can't do that, he rejoices when his befuddled representaves give all power and responsibility to one chosen leader. He knows, though by instinct, that no organization or undertaking can be managed efficiently unless it has a single all-powerful boss.

A house divided against itself cannot stand. And where authority divided there is no progress except by compromise. America did a good job in the war because there was nobody to question Wilson's authority. The allies doubled their effectiveness when they gave all authority to Foch. Now a troubled world, desperate and of inaction, surrenders its fate to dictators.

Practical men of good hard sense know full well that to multiply bosses is to multiply sorrow.
We laugh at the Russians because factory workers quit their ma chines to vote on every question of policy or procedure instead of taking orders from a foreman. But our own system is little better. Every citizen in the land has from five to nine distinct and separate boards or officials to tax him and regulate his conduct.

He travels fastest who travels alone. The Fords and Morgans and Rockefellers are men who acted on their own judgment, unhindered by dissenting partners. Could any business long survive if it had a dozen managers, each pursuing his independent way without regard for the others, and all possessed of equal authority to make rules and spend money? That is the system of government we treasure, in the fond belief that preserves our liberties; but it gives us little freedom and less protecon, and the cost of it mounts with every year that comes.

If we know a better way, why are we so reluctant to adopt it? There are successful city managers; why not state managers? If free men can delegate authority to many representatives, would they be less free if they gave all authority to one representative?

When one man has all the power, he also has all the responsibility. If one big motor can do all the work, why complicate matters by hooking up 400 little ones?

Silk Manufacturers Contend Industry Belongs in Their Division.

RAYON INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(P)— The proper place of the rayon weaving industry in the textile field became an issue at hearings today on the rayon hour-shortening, wage-raising code before the inquiry was adjourned subject to call.

The silk manufacturers contended the industry belongs with their divi-sion and the labor group, headed by Thomas McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, with them McMahon asked, also, for a 30-hour maximum work week and minimum weekly wage of $18 instead of the 40 hours and $12 and $13 for the south and north, respectively, called for in the code of fair competition. The rayon mills are operating under the virtually identical provisions of the cotton textile code pending approval of their own agreement. James A. Goldsmith, president of the Silk Association of America, said the rayon weavers should file their labor, production and other data un-der the code through his organization and not separately.

"I can't recognize that there is a finitely defined rayon weaving instry," he said. "They put into the dustry," he said. oom whatever they can sell. Rayon bric is common to everyone."

Reports and estimates filed by the Reports and estimates filed by the graineering firm showed that the city would save from $3,000,000 to $4,000.000 in initial outlays if the chemical process is adopted. Whether or not the body of Mrs. Lillian Allgood, slain by her husband, Edward Allgood, before he took his own life Saturday, will be turned over to his relatives or to her sister, Miss Margaret Hale, will be decided by Judge E. E. Pomeroy after a hearing at 9 o'clock this morning. Her body still is at the funeral home of Sam Greenberg and no funeral arrangements will be made until after the hearing.

Judge Pomeroy also will award custody of Jean, 5-year-old daughter of the couple, whose possession is sought by relatives of both. Miss Hale had obtained an order preventing Mrs. John Petropol, of Athens, from claiming the body of her sister.

In a letter written before the double slaying, Allgood ordered his daughter given to his mother, Mrs. Petropol.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

When Mary Sawyer, at 18, leaves her Millistream, Va., home to learn dress designing in Hollywood, she meets Freekle Bryan, a movie extra, and goes to live with her. Freekle takes her to a charity fair at the beautiful estate of Curt Little, millionaire movie producer, who recognizes her as the daughter of the man who stole his wife years before in Virginia. He determines to use Mary as the instrument of revenge and cultivates her friendship. The day after Mary meets Curt, who as 39 is prematurely gray but handsome, they are at the Cinema Club when Tom Smith shows up at Freekle's apartment and announces he is Mary's fiance. Tom has made the trip from Virginia in an astimatic car built from odd parts. When Mary returns at 8 o'clock in the morning, she upbraids him for following her. He leaves after a scene, saying Mary can reach him at the "Y." but writes her and she asks him to call that evening. Just before he arrives, Curt phones asking her to dine with him and asping he has a surprise for her. She accepts, hoping it is the job with a designer he has mentioned. When Tommy learns Mary has stood him up, he tells Freekle he is through with her. Curt's aurprise is to send her to Madame Cissie Dumas, famous couturier, who delights her by engaging her as a model. Even Mary is surprised because of her size, but Madame Dumas explains that several of Little's movie stars are petite and she needs a model like Mary to show them her gowns. What she does not tell Mary is that Curt Little is to pay her salary. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. She accepts, hoping it is the low with a designer he has mentioned. When he tells regard he has mentioned much he has mentioned to have he tells freekle he has mentioned much he tells freekle he has mentioned. When he tells freekle he is through with her. What she does not tell Mary in that Curt Little is to mar by a model has been to Curt Little is to mar by a model has been to Curt Little is to mar by the control of the dinner party! I promise to take care of myself. I just need a little sleep."

Mrs. Birney went out with a worried little shake of her head, her stiffly starched skirts swishing efficiently.

Curt sat for a little time starting into space. Now that he had made up his mind to marry Mary Sawyer he was fraultie for fear she would refuse him. Although Freekle assured him daily when he telephoned her that Mary had not been seeing the boy from home, Tommy was, nevertheless, a thorn in his side.

Sometimes Mary had a far-away look in her eyes—and once or twice had serieve her head, there is the mar had not been seeing the boy from home, Tommy was, nevertheless, a thorn in his side.

He must ask her to marry him right away, before the chap had an-other chance to put in an appear-ance and throw a monkey wrench into his carefully built machinery. His mind in a turmoil of uncertainty, Curt picked up the 'phone and called Madame Dumas.

The list young and handsome and goes for redheads in a big way."
That did interest Freckle. But she said dubiously:
"You wouldn't fool the little woman?"
"You come and see." Curt laughed again. Then asked in a low voice. "Seen anything of our young friend?"
"He's scarcer than baby clothes in a bachelor's laundry bag."
"Good." Curt chuckled. "You're a great little fixer. I won't forget my promise."
Freckle was thrilled. She knew Curt Little would keep his promise to give her the part in "Hi-De-Di." And the promised bonus of $5.000 on the day he married Mary would be manns from heaven. People worked and slaved all their lives to save less than that to insure their future. She could do a lot for the family back in Brooklyn with a nest egg like that. Maybe even send her kid sister Judy to college.

Judy was smart—and keen looking. She had ambition, too, and was nearly through high school at 15. Worked her way through, taking care of babies after school hours. She'd certainly had enough experience with kiddies at home to know something about them. All of a sudden Freckle was so homesick for a sight of the old tenement and her mother and 11 brothers and sisters that the tears rained down her cheeks.

But she wiped them way passionately, and forced her mind to thinking of Curt Little's party. It was the

"And—so why?" she laughed lightly. "You are lonesome?"

Curt forced a laugh.

"I'm giving a dinner party, and it wouldn't be quite complete without you."

"Oh—I am flattered." Dumas wondered if it had anything to do with the mystery of Mary. "I have a small engagement—but I will break it."

As a matter of fact Dumas had an engagement with one of her most important clients. But wild horses couldn't have kept her away from Curt's party. She felt certain she would learn something about his relations with the little girl from Virginia in whom he took such a mysterious interest.

Dumas was not surprised when Curt asked to speak to Mary. She too wondered what all the dinner partying was about. Perhaps a big business deal to be handled over the flowing bowl.

Freckle was a little more than astonished when Curt telephoned her an invitation to join his party.

"I've a blind date for you," he laughed. "Now I know you won't turn me down."

Freckle giggled.

"Oh, Mr. Little sees you in that. Let's see—for a damaged dress I can charge you but a very little. Seven dollars—at the most. Pay me next month. Not now."

A customer demanded Dumas' attention and she hurried from the room. Mary turned and turned wonderingly, admiring herself breathlessly in the striking creation that the lented Dumas had planned for her. FORTY-TWO of America's greatest racing cars - many of them costly hand-built creations - started the 500-mile Speedway race at Indianapolis on Memorial Day.

That's what made the showing of the Studebaker five-car team so amazing. Every car of the five was 85% stock-built in the regular course of production at the Studebaker factory and then slightly modified to conform with racing requirements.

Those five Studebakers - and two privately entered cars with Studebaker engines-finished in the first twelve. Not a repair was made to any car in the Studebaker team throughout the 500 miles.

No other proving ground in the world could give a car the test the Studebakers took in this fastest race in Speedway history. Why not come in today and drive a new Automatic Studebaker so that you can see for yourself why Studebaker engineering is so flawless and Studebaker stamina so superior?

By Wood Burns-

Not so long ago the old parlor organ was the center of attraction and the source of most of the music "when company come"—The boys an' girls would gather in the "parlor" an' play an' sing to their hearts' content-

But gradually the old order of things has changed-first the "phonograph" - now the modern and up-to-date radio-pullin' music right out o' the air-giving you ever'thing worthwhile from all over the world, along with plenty o' stuff not worth listenin' to-

Tactics Against the Takeout Double.

BY ELY CULBERTSON. World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Many players at the Bridge table, after partner has made an Opening bid and an opponent has doubled for a Takeout, are strongly inclined to remain quiet for one round of bidding, hoping, often against hope, that the opponents will get into difficulties. Sometimes a course buch as this is justified and sometimes it is necessary, a the responding hand, after a sound Opening bid followed by a sound Takeout Double, often is too weak to safely follow any other course. In other cases, however, passing after a Double can do nothing, but harm. For instance, good bidding tactics require that if partner has opened the bidding with a suit that can be supported, a Jump Raise should be made in order that the road for the opponents may be made difficult. It is equally true that if the hand contains a Takeout that would be made if there were no Takeout Double, then the Takeout should be made after the Double unless the balance of the hand suggests the strong probability that any response made to the Takeout Double by the Double's partner will result in severe penalties for the doubling side.

FORT McCLELLAN, Ala., July 25.—Another splendid crowd of visitors from Anniston and near-by sections witnessed the formal guard mounting and parade late yesterday afternoon of the 122d infantry, Georgia national guard, which brought the outfit one day up on the closing week of the annual encampment. The visit of Governor Eugene Taimadge and several hundred Atlantans Sunday was an added incentive to the regiment, and one of the most spectacular and well executed parades of the entire period of camp was viewed by the huge crowd.

Colonel Thomas L. Alexander, commanding officer, has been highly complimented by visiting army and civilians upon Sunday's program, and Alabamans were greatly interested in the completion of the past week, and was designated as the best company by a board of officers.

So you see I am being punished for my brutal treatment of him. What do you think? BROWN EYES. it. After having had a lot of exciting beaux who had sport roadsters and other expensive things I met Ted. I annexed him though I treated him outrageously simply because he would take it. I used to make dates with him and then if somebody came along with a car I would ride off and leave him. He never was rude about it, though he was hurt. He had his trouble at home, too. His father is a stern, overbearing man that thinks he has the right to tell his children where to get off. He never even let Ted have the car unless he took his old maid aunts along with him. Well, things rocked along and finally some-body told me that Ted was drinking. He never let me see him when he was under the influence of whisky until one night he came to see me dead drunk. I gave him the gate and since that time have not seen him until this month. He came down with a terrible fever and the family was doing all the nursing so I went over and helped them occasionally. Perhaps this wasn't proper but I didn't care, for I discovered that I was in love with Ted and wanted him. He never was rude about it,

Cubs Lose Ground as Bucs Take Bill, 4-3 and 4-1.

PITTSBURGH, July 25—(AP)—The Pirates defeated the second-place Chicago Cubs in both ends of a double-header today, 4 to 3 and 4 to 1, and got back into the thick of the National

The double victory left the Bucs only a game and a half behind Chicago while the lead the idle New York Giants hold ower the Cubs was increased to three games.

The pitching of Steve Swetonic and Hal Smith was an important factor in the Bucs triumph while Freddy Lindstrom put in a busy day at bat to run his hitting streak to 22 consecutive games since he came out of a slump about three weeks ago. Lindy walloped a double and single in the first game and three singles in the second, batting in three runs altogether.

Swetonic failed to finish the opener, being lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, but Smith worked the entire game and limited the Cubs to five hits and an unearned run. Lloyd Waner, who batted for Swetonic, beacked in the winning run with a hits and an unearned run. Lloyd Waner, who batted for Swetonic, knocked in the winning run with a single after Tony Piet had opened with a double off Guy Bush and Earl Grace had advanced him with a safe bunt. The Cubs tied the count at 3-3 in the first half of the eighth when Babe Herman tripled with two aboard. Frank Demaree's homer accounted for the other Chicago tally.

The Bues got their winning runs in the second inning of the nightcap as Piet was hit by a pitched ball, Hal Finney beat out a bunt and Lindstrom smacked a single to center that Demarce let go past him for an error. They added a second pair in the eighth on a walk, singles by Piet and Lindstrom and Finney's two bagger.

The Cub run resulted from Piet's fumble of Kiki Cuyler's grounder in the third after Mark Koenig had singled and stolen second.

THE LEADERS.

Now if any man has the courage and the inclination Let him come forth and lift on high His arms with caestus-bound hands!

This pronouncement from Vergil's Aeneid was made by Aeneas, who was the Joe Humphreys of that day, in announcing one of the greatest of all heavyweight fights of all time.

It is supplied, together with a description of the fight as reported by Vergil, by Major W. D. Mooney, the brilliant scholar and schoolman who is principal of Riverside Acedemy.

"The nature of this announcement," writes Professor Mooney, "indicates that prize fights of this type were customary. "The announcement was delivered before a heavyweight bout between Dares, of the Trojans, and Entellus, of the Sicilians.

"At once Dares, a Trojan, who had been accustomed to contend with such boxers as Paris and who had killed at least one champion in the ring, offers himself as one of the contestants. An adversary foe did not offer himself and so Dares indulges in shadow boxing and demands that the prize be given him.

"All the Trojans roared their approval but Acestes, king of Sicily, where the games were being celebrated, urges Entellus, the former Sicilian champion, to show the visiting Trojans what he could do in

"Despite the fact that he was 'heavy with age,' Entellus accepted the challenge and threw his gloves into the ring. They were made with seven layers of hides and were stiff with lead and iron.

"Dares refuses to fight with gloves such as Entellus offers." Acetes

The Baroness Levi, winner of four titles in the metropolitan district this year, perhaps surpassed the feats of the other two by outplaying the second-seeded Carolin Babcock, of Los Angeles, third in the national ranking, in a fiery three-set fray.

The Italian noblewoman won by scores of 1-6, 6-3, 6-4 and was the only unseeded woman competitor to reach the round of eight.

The continued failures of the defending champions, Sidney Wood, of New lattle are over."

The continued failures of the defending champions, Sidney Wood, of New York, and Helen Jacobs, national champion from Berkeley, Cal., to demonstrate championship tenuis showed up during the day. Both managed to win, Wood putting out Percy L. Kynaston, of New York, and Miss Jacobs climinating Mae Ceurvorst, of Wichita, Kan., but both made many errors in doing so.

Dares. And then, the out own date of which the first are over."

Professor Mooney points out that from the caestus we came on down to the old bare-knuckle days. The last fight of this type was the John L. Sullivan-Jake Kilrain engagement on Wichita, Kan., but both made many errors in doing so.

"Many ring classics had preceded this; many more were to follow; still others will follow these, for in the heart of man is the desire for conflict."

And that, I think, is a classic summing up of the fight game Major Mooney. He has been interested in sport for many, many years. And his great teams at the old Mooney school were among the greatest. They were always teams of sportsmen because the man behind them was a gentleman and a sportsman who taught Latin, Greek and mathematics as among the essential fundamentals of life.

BAER'S CAMPAIGN.

Incredulous ears are tuned in with the coast where Max Baer's board of control is talking of tossing their man in there with W. L. (Young) Stribling, Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling before the Carnera fight next June.

This is all right, of course, and will increase the young man's popularity. But it is most unusual in these days of politics and sinister machinations and manipulations in the ring.

There hasn't been a fighter who would take a chance since Jack Dempsey was knocking them horizontal. I am aware of the fact that it will be disputed but W. L. Stribling and Jack Sharkey might tie Baer up and make him look bad by staying away and boxing him.

Max Schmeling, given another chance, would stay away and box. He did that against Jack Sharkey. He and Sharkey looked very bad as two boxers always will look very bad. But they avoided damage. Schmeling was made to order for Baer. He went plodding in, confident that his right hand was good enough to stop the defeat would ruin his chances as a card with Carnera. Yet It is a smart move in a way. And there were enough horrible examples of what one fight a year will do to a battler to make Baer's director's see the light. One fight a year makes the battler rusty as an old, beached

But to find a fighter taking a chance is something else. And most unusual.

SHARKEY'S CAMPAIGN.

Jack Sharkey blamed the Garden, who had him tied up to a contract permitting one fight per year, for his defeat in the Carnera fight

While there is some doubt as to that being the cause of his loss, a right hand to the jaw needing no explanation, it is quite true that a fighter cannot be himself unless he fights with regularity.

Sharkey's decision to fight King Levinsky this fall in Chicago and then go on and meet all other contenders at the rate of one per month if possible, is also a bit startling.

The caestus, "made of seven hides and heavy with lead and iron," was a nice, sociable weapon. Worn on either hand they could probably inflict about as much damage as Sherman's army on its march to the sea. Compared with those days our present game is very namby-pamby indeed. I would like to see Max Baer turned loose with a caestus on either paw. Where is that sissy King Kong?

Oglethorpe To Try Out New Offense This Fall

From a thoroughly reliable and authentic source comes the informa-tion that Harry Robertson, football coach at Oglethorpe University, is cooking up a new type of offense for his Petrels this fall with a priidea of employing the line buck to advantage.

While Harry is still vacationing somewhere in the vicinity of Lynn, Mass., it is understood that he is already formulating plans for a drastic change in the Oglethorpe attack this fall, the same having been inspired by a dearth of Petrel touchdowns in the last three years.

the change will be from the double wingback, which system Robertson has been using, to a single wing, the idea being to increase the Petrels' scoring punch inside the 20-yard line. The Robertson picturesque military shift from the huddle will be maintained, the o ly variation being in the offensive set, designed for more plays through the middle of the line.

"Oglethorpe teams have been very successful in gaining ground in open field from the double wing, but the goal line punch has been weak due to the lack of an effective power play," an official close to Robertson at Oglethorpe, stated recently.

This is all very true. The Petrel offense has been of the most spectacular variety but the fact remains that it has produced little scoring in recent seasons. Last year, and the year before, the Petrels played good

Manager Moore drew the fire of the rail birds for running two men home from third to get thrown out, but there was some method in this, for in each instance there were two out and the club doesn't carry enough punch to warrant not taking chances once in a while.

The Crackers held the whip hand in the first game for the first five innings. They took a 2-1 lead in the first and Carlos Moore was sent in to protect it in the second when Larsen lat the Smokies tie the score. Moore got the side out, pitched brilliantly for two innings, then allowed the Smokies to forge ahead in the fifth after two were out on Head's single and a pair of doubles by Chervinko and Horne. They got another in the seventh.

By all the rights in the world, he should have gotten away with that one. # TEXTILE EMPLOYMENT SHOWS BIG INCREASE RALEIGH, N. C., July 25.—(P)—An increase of nearly 1,500 among the employed textile workers of Gaston county during the first week the cotton industry code was in copers.

the employed textile workers of Gaston county during the first week the cotton industry code was in operation was reported today by Felix Grissette, of the North Carolina relief department.

Grissette said the employed climbed from 17,825 to 19,245 in the period. Gaston county claims approximately 100 textile mills in its limits.

Grissette said the number of textile families on relief rolls had shown a sharp decline. At one time last winter, he said, there were 4,700 Gaston county families receiving government aid. Although the total number now on the list is not available, he added, the percentage of textile families dropped from a high of 51 of the total to 6.8 per cent of the total after the code went into effect. The week before 13.8 per cent of the total consisted of mill families.

'Secrets' Winners Describe Trip To Chicago as Pickford Guests

By MR. AND MRS. J. L. GATLIN.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Well, here we are in the great city of Chicago. And what a great city it is! You will remember the contest which the Atlanta Constitution arranged with Mary Pickford to ascertain Atlanta's happiest married couple, in which we were awarded a trip to A Century of Progress—the world's fair—with all expenses paid by Mary Pickford. Miss Pickford provided railroad tickets, a drawing room, meals on the train and even a taxicab from our home to the station. Some class!

First Glimpse of Fair.

After luncheon we were taken down Chicago's world-famous Michigan boulevard, which is now all decked boulevard, which is now all decked out in flags and gay bunting, to Navy Pier, where we boarded a speed boat, chartered by Miss Pickford, to take us to the fair. Whizzing along the blue waters of Lake Michigan at 50 miles an hour, we saw everything there was to seen seen on our ride down the lake front—the Gold Coast, the skyline and its towering skyscrapers, big steamers and millionaires' yachts. It was thrilling and mar-

Our first glimpse of A Century of Progress was awe-inspiring. All the colors of the rainbow seemed to have been taken to the lake front and just splashed around. But there is a desplashed around. But there is a design, because our escorts told us this vivid color creates a spirit of carnival and connects all of the buildings just as Joseph Urban, famed Viennese artist, had planned. We can't seem to phrase it, but the oranges and blues, red and yellows, uplift and exhilarate you, like a brisk ride in the early morning.

morning. We landed at the world's fair dock where we were met by photographers. We had our pictures taken in many different poses until even the newspapermen were satisfied and then we went and saw the fair.

Our escorts first took us to the grandstand, which overlooks the north lagoon where the boat races were going on. We saw a tub race. It was certainly comical. There were all kinds of stunts—aquaplane races, jumping and boat races.

Ind boat races.

From the roar of the races our scorts took us to the Illinois host building, where we saw the Lincoln whibit. I never knew there were so many things known about Lincoln and his friends. We signed the official register of the exposition. And just think, right alongside of our names were the names of four governors who had been the last official guests of the fair preceding us.

we took great pleasure in examining and comparing with our ideas gained in the Swedish pavilion.

Next we saw the golden temple of Jehol, with its real gold roof, brought from China in 28,000 pieces and assembled here. This is a temple in which only the emperors and high priests may enter in China.

Next the Japanese pavilion. There we saw pretty Japanese girls making silk komonos. We should have liked to have one but none was for sale at the moment. In the exhibit of the South Manchuria Railway Company we saw a full-size model of the interior of a Manchurian home. We had heard so much about Manchuria and the Japanese that we stayed for the letter The Seath Marchurian KILLS SELF IN NICE had heard so much about Manchuria and the Japanese that we stayed for the lecture. The South Manchuria Railway Company does big things. It runs schools and hospitals and teaches the people how to plow and plant crops in a scientific manner.

The trip over the lagoon in the rocket car was thrilling, especially when the car crossed a cable connection when it would dip alarmingly. But it didn't mean a thing; it was perfectly safe. After this crossing we almost ran to a delicious fish dinner. A waitress told us that there were 87 miles of exhibits on the grounds and we had only seen a little bit of the fair thus far.

Our dinner over, we rose refreshed and strolled over to the Federal building and the Hall of States. We never heard of a talking book before, but they have one in the Federal building. It was kind of spooky seeing the pages turn and hearing the pages turn and hearing the ing the pages turn and hearing the book explain the pictures. We saw models of battleships and dioramas models of battleships and dioramas of mountains and national parks. After a while our escorts took us to the office of the building where we met Harry S. But we didn't want to be Indians and besides it was a long ways down from the Federal buildways down from the Federal build-ing, so we didn't go.

The Court of States was very in-

Some of the most inter-esting things we saw were a water-fall which acts as an air-cooling sys-tem, huge trees the size of a doorway, a beautiful mural which has caused such favorable comment in ar-tistic circles, and we heard the lovely plantation songs by the colored Orange Blossom quartet. Of course we saw our own state exhibit, and that was most interesting of all.

The Indian leader explained that he must discontinue his seminary because it was to him the most precious thing on earth.

Hundreds and thousands of people, he said, had lost everything in the struggle for Indian independence, and he felt that it was up to him and the members of the "Ashram" to make a sacrifice on the eve of embarking on a new "sacred mission."

The nature of the mission was not disclosed, but it was believed to be connected with Gandhi's plan for individual civil disobedience in place of the former mass campaign.

It is expected that the mahatma will choose members of the seminary to join him in the individualistic movement of civil disobedience.

Aimee said no, she didn't think she had fainted. Mrs. Robert A. Smythe, Mrs. Hutton's daughter by a previous marriage, stepped into the breach.

"I'm mother's only baby," she said. "and I weigh more than nine pounds,"
A quick glance showed that Mrs.
Smythe had summed up the situation

"Tch, tch," cried Miss Middleton.
"She's fainted."

Aimee opened her eyes and said for Miss Middleton not to worry, that she hadn't fainted at all.
"Yes hard to make the fainted at all."
"Yes hard to make the situation correctly.
"But let us get back to David," said Mrs. Hutton. "It was all so sudden. So hasty. "Has she fainted?" everybody asked Miss Middleton.
"Not this time," Miss Middleton

"But I want to talk to them. I want to tell them what a shock it was to learn that David was doing this—this awful thing."

"Not this time." Miss Middleton replied, tucking a blanket around Aimee's feet.

"We intend to assist co-operative enlerprises and to promote co-operation," the message added.

Peck pointed out that the co-operative division of the administration

If eggs were dated like telegrams, so you could see exactly how close to the cackle they are-or sold by the pound, so you'd know how much food you were getting . . . nobody would wonder why "Fresh Eggs" are so often listed at so many different prices in different stores.

Rogers Fresher Eggs have clear, rich yolks-which indicates good breeding and high food value. The whites are firm, which means freshness. They are big eggs-and good eggs.
